Design Espen Øino for Paola Lenti

Elianto, derived from the Greek words helios (sun) and anthos (flower), refers to a plant with the unique ability to follow the sun's movement.

It is also the name of a project originally designed by Espen Øino for the yachting market, but indeed suited to all outdoor environments, from the swimming pool area to the garden, in both residential and hospitality projects.

The Norwegian naval architect and founder of the Monte Carlo-based studio Espen Øino International is one of the most celebrated yacht designers in the world. He has pursued a timeless and essential design approach, in line with Paola Lenti's formal design language.

Elianto is a circular platform that functions as both a sofa and a chaise longue, resisting traditional typological classification. The structure, crafted from matt-varnished stainless steel with adjustable feet, is designed with three-sectioned seat cushions that hide the steel base and allow for rapid drying. The removable upholstery is available in Paola Lenti's collection of outdoor fabrics.

The design features two rotating backrests and a side table with a removable top that doubles as a practical tray, all attached to the structure. This mobility allows users to adjust their seating position according to the sun's movement throughout the day.

With Elianto, Espen Øino has designed a contemporary seating solution intended for moments of relaxation aboard a yacht, whether in solitude or company. Paola Lenti's exclusive fabrics make it unique and unmistakable. The result is a functional, elegant, and welcoming island, capable of conveying a modern sense of understated luxury.

This collaboration combines Øino's expertise in the yachting sector with the high-performance technical materials from Paola Lenti, resulting from years of research that has led to increasingly competitive products. These materials are known for their ability to withstand even the most challenging marine environments, maintaining both structural integrity and aesthetic appeal.

The colours and upholstery fabrics, always coordinated, further confirm Paola Lenti's role as a reference point in the industry, as well as its position among the most cutting-edge and internationally respected companies in the outdoor furniture market.

Founded in 1994, Paola Lenti is renowned worldwide for the innovative twist it has given to design products and for its unmistakable interpretation of colour. In thirty years of activity, the company has created a collection of exclusive fabrics and technical materials, eco-friendly and available in hundreds of hues. Paola Lenti indoor and outdoor collections and complements for the architecture are displayed in the most important international showrooms.
